RUSSIA CHINA AND INDIA TROOPS IN KAZAKSTAN

Tom Dicker

Russia has moved troops into Kazakhstan. India, in cooperation with China has moved troops into Kazakhstan. Though stating that they respect the sovereignty of other nations they did not warn Kazakhstan before moving into the area. They do however strongly disapprove of Russia's actions in Ukraine, and feel threatened by Russian developments.

Possible New “Nation of Science” a Joke?

Chloe Paul

The Japanese Top Scientist announced that the Global Council of Scientists has announced plans to secede from their respective countries and form a new “Nation of Science.” Dr Hall claims they will need adequate military forces to do so. When asked, China’s top scientist Dr Chalmers claimed that there was “no such nation of science” and that it was a “joke.” Russia’s top scientist claims they are not a part of such an organisation. India has no information, and believes it was a misunderstanding or a joke. However all nations stressed that they believe in scientific cooperation for all mankind

Opinion – Human Lies In The Face of Nonhuman Threat?

Pierce Wilcox

As Russia fights an unknown foe in Ukraine, and the world goes to war in Kazakhstan international leaders may have accidentally hinted that the assailants may be something darker than a rogue state. Two separate world leaders, when pressed on the identity of the attackers, were quick to denounce claims of an ‘alien threat’. Russia has stated that the conflict in Ukraine might pose a threat to the whole world.

Our soldiers are dying. The world deserves to know what they are dying for. Whichever nation breaks the conspiracy of silence and reveals the truth behind this conflict will set a new standard for transparency and good government in a troubled world.
